

The Janesville Daily Gazette.

JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1882.

Published Every Evening Except Sunday, at $7 a Year.

NUMBER 45

The more time given young Belmont for reflection since his attack on Blaine, the clearer he sees that he is as high in brains as he is in weight.

Peter, the brother of John G. Saxe, takes a great deal of pride in saying that the poet has made more money in one year off his Texas cattle than he has in twenty years writing poetry.

Mr. F. A. Cronch, the author of "Kathleen Mavourneen," which is sung the world over, is suffering the pangs of extreme poverty in his old age. A public subscription has been started for him in Portland, Maine. The publishers of music who have made thousands of dollars out of his ballads, should be liberal and prompt givers to this subscription.

A dispatch from Washington to the Milwaukee Republican says that Congressman Pound has received information that the Hon. Isaac Stevenson, of Marietta, will be a candidate for nomination for Congress in his district. Mr. Pound is, of course, a candidate for nomination himself, but the information does not disturb his equanimity nor induce any expression of anxiety as to the result. He is personally friendly with Mr. Stevenson and if the report is true as to the latter's anxiety for a seat in Congress, Mr. Pound feels assured that he will have an honorable competitor. The signs of the times give promise that there will be lively contests in the Third, Seventh and Eighth districts.

The readers of the Gazette and the friends of Mr. W. G. Roberts, will be glad to read the following item which is taken from the St. Paul Pioneer Press:

What would a live town be without a newspaper? Moorhead has its paper, and though small it is lively. Its editor is Mr. J. A. Truesdell, late of the Pioneer Press, and its business manager is none other than W. G. Roberts, for many years at the head of the business department of the Milwaukee Sentinel. The paper is owned by a stock company, with $15,000 paid up capital. They have a finely equipped office, with power presses driven by a hydraulic motor run from the city water-works. The paper is a six-column folio, not large, but very spicy, and is already proving a thorn in the flesh to its big neighbor over the river, for it never fails to thrust in a dart through every opening in its not always invulnerable armor. It is an afternoon paper, and through some means has secured the afternoon franchise from the Associated Press for both cities, which was certainly a masterly stroke of policy, to say the least.

It would seem from this and from other sources that Mr. Roberts is on the highway to success, and none will be more heartily pleased over this than his friends in Janesville.

The Hon. Horace Maynard, of East Tennessee, died on the 31st instant of heart disease. When he rose in the morning he told his wife that he did not feel well and instantly fell dead to the floor. Mr. Maynard was one of the great political characters of this country, and achieved a wide distinction. He was born in Massachusetts in 1814 and was graduated from Amherst College. He emigrated to Tennessee about 1840, and became a tutor in the University of that State, and during that time he studied law and was admitted to the bar. He was a Whig, with anti-slavery tendencies. In 1857 he was elected to the Thirty-fifth Congress, and was re-elected to the Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh. When the war of the rebellion broke out, he supported the cause of the Union, for which the rebels confiscated all his property and drove his family from Eastern Tennessee. After the close of the war he was elected to the Thirty-ninth Congress, and was also re-elected to the Fortieth, Forty-second, and Forty-third Congresses. In 1875 he was appointed Minister to Turkey, and in 1880 Postmaster General. He was a stalwart Republican, a ripe scholar and a polished gentleman, and in debate was one of the most fearless men that ever held a seat in Congress.

When a railway company issues for gratuitous distribution so superb a publication as "Picturesque B. & O." the great publishing firms of the country will have to exert themselves lively to produce works which will be deemed worthy of sale. We take up and look over this latest offering of the Passenger Department of the Baltimore & Ohio, one cannot but be amazed that such a book has been made solely for the purpose of free distribution. The majority of illustrated works now selling in the stores for seventy-five cents to a dollar are no more to be compared with "Picturesque B. & O." than is silk to calico. For that matter, many pretentious presentation books which command big figures holiday time are a long way inferior to this exquisite publication, which is to be given away for the asking. As a matter of course, it is an advertisement of the Baltimore & Ohio road, but no one ever before saw such an advertisement, and there is so little of such character about it that the most fastidious of critics can find nothing to carp at. The book is written in a chatty, unassuming style, the author, Mr. J. G. Pangborn, having had many years' newspaper experience. The illustrations are the great charm of the work, and they are introduced in perfect taste and with almost prodigious profusion. No publication in paper cover ever excelled it indeed equalled it, and when it is stated that Thomas Morgan made upward of seventy of the drawings, the reader is prepared to believe the claim justly made. Ordinarily the finest of periodicals contain from forty to fifty illustrations, and generally half of these are exchange cuts from European sources, and to cultured patrons not strictly new. "Picturesque B. & O." contains from ninety to a hundred illustrations, every one of them absolutely new, and drawn and cut expressly for it. The Gazette is under obligations to Mr. C. K. Lord, General Passenger Agent, Baltimore, for a copy of this work.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Special to the Gazette.
PORT ATKINSON, May 4.—During a severe thunder storm this morning, lightning struck a large hay press and barn owned by P. Dohmiller, and it was consumed by fire. Loss, $3,000, insurance, $1,000. It burned to the ground in twenty minutes. The barn contained 35 tons of hay.

WHAT MR. WILLIAMS SAYS.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Chairman Williams, of the foreign relations committee, says the cable dispatch conveying information of the release of American citizens by the British government, as this result is conclusive that the negotiations of the State Department and the course of the committee were judicious and effective.

Indigestion, costiveness, or constipation, are immediately cured with Zopisa from Brazil. It stimulates and gives activity to the liver. It increases the dissolving juices of the stomach, and causes the food to assimilate. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

A MURDEROUS ATTACK.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 3.—Alfred Drake, a young man 16 years old attending the business school here, has for some time been keeping company with Miss Jennie Faulkner, a student of the Franklin school. Both of the parents objected to her keeping company on account of the youth of the boy and girl. It is said that Drake proposed a chaste marriage, but Jennie would not consent. This afternoon, as Jennie was returning home from school, young Drake met her, and with his face contorted with passion, drew a 44-calibre bull dog revolver and fired at her, without hitting her. She ran, he pursuing, and firing two more shots, none of which hit the flying girl. A crowd by this time collected and pursued young Drake, who, finding himself likely to be captured, placed the pistol to his forehead as he ran and fired, blowing the front of his head off. The parents of the suicide and Miss Faulkner are all respectable members of society.

How often persons have been annoyed by burrs clinging to their dress or clothing, and how seldom have they, when cleaning them, given it a thought that Burdock Root is the most valuable blood cleanser and purifier known, and is sold by every druggist under the name of Burdock Blood Bitters. Price $1.00. Sold by A. J. Roberts and F. Sherer & Co.

METHODIST CHURCH SOUTH.

NASHVILLE, May 3.—The general conference of the Methodist Church South began its session here to-day, the senior Bishop, Payne, presiding. The review of the church for four years past, and the statement of the present condition and prospects show cause for gratitude. They show increase of 247 itinerant ministers, and an increase of membership to 86,687. Thirteen thousand persons were added to the communion last year. There are over 5,000 members in the Indian mission, 1,000 in the Mexican border mission, and the same number in the Central Mexican mission. The increase in the Sunday school attendance is 2,071 pupils. The address also shows a healthy financial condition of the publishing house at Nashville; urges that steps be taken preparatory to a proper celebration of the coming centenary of American Methodism; and urges increased facilities for providing colored Methodist organizations with pastors and teachers of the race. In recommending teachers to the college of bishops, the bishop suggests that with three new bishops the work of the church can be done in the next four years.

POISONED.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 3.—Nine inmates of a boarding-house were poisoned to-day. Last evening Nelson Fry, a boarder at the house of Mrs. Mary Robinson, purchased poison and gave it to Julia Watkins, a domestic, with instructions to mix it in the dough. To-day when the inmates partook of fresh bread, all of them became deathly sick, and the physicians fear one or two may not survive. The poisoned persons are Addison and George Lomax, Dalney Mappin, boarders; Ada Wilson, Jane Simpson, and Mrs. Reynolds and three children. Julia Watkins has been arrested, but denies having anything to do with the poisoning. Fry has fled.

A Significant Fact.

The cheapest medicine in use is THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL, because so very little of it is required to effect a cure. For cramp, diphtheria, and diseases of the lungs and throat, whether used for bathing the throat or chest, or for taking internally or inhaling, it is a matchless compound, sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

OBITUARY.

DELAVER, Wis., May 3.—Robert Menzie, a valued citizen and noted lawyer, died this morning of Bright's disease of the kidneys, aged 73 years.

It acts directly upon the stomach, liver and kidneys in a remarkable manner. ZOPISA from Brazil, is only appreciated by those who have tried it. Every bottle warranted to cure Dyspepsia. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

SLUGGED AND ROBBED.

MILWAUKEE, May 3.—Albert Solek went out with his intended bride last Sunday to invite friends to the wedding, which was to occur shortly. He left the girl at a friend's house and told her to stay until he went to another friend's residence. He was not seen afterward until to-day, when he was found unconscious by the roadside, fifteen miles from town. He had $20 when he disappeared, and had evidently been robbed. He is dying.

ALBANY, N.Y., May 3.—Dentists who have tried "TEA-BERRY" pronounce it the finest thing on the face of this earth for the teeth and breath. 5 cent samples. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

JESSE JAMES' SLAYER.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 3.—Telegraphic messages have been received here to-day stating that Bob Ford, who killed Jesse James, was in Chicago. Such statements are false, as Ford was in Kansas City to-day with Sheriff Timberlake and Captain Craig, of this city, and left for his home in Clay county at 6 o'clock. He returned from St. Joseph this forenoon, where he obtained by replevin the Col's revolver with which he killed Jesse, and he says he will always carry it to be in readiness for Frank James. The trial of both Bob Ford and Dick Little for the killing of Wood Hite will take place in Ray county next week.

It works wonders upon the Digestive apparatus. ZOPISA from Brazil, acts as a gentle purgative, cures Dyspepsia, relieves languor and low spirits, gives energy and capacity for work. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

NORTHERN FLOODS.

ST. PAUL, May 3.—A Winnipeg special to the Pioneer Press says the water in the Red river rose six inches from noon yesterday to noon to-day, and is still rising. It is now three inches higher than the highest point reached by the ice freshet ten days ago. Things look very threatening and serious on the flats. The Assiniboine, also rising very fast, tends greatly to aggravate the situation. The steamer Selkirk continues to transfer passengers from the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba railway below St. Vincent to the Canadian Pacific north of Emerson. The Assiniboine rose seven feet a Portage LaPrairie yesterday, again washing out the Canadian Pacific track. There are no prospects of through trains West for a week. A number of houses are under water in the vicinity, most of whose occupants have again been compelled to seek refuge in the upper portions of their dwellings. The steamer Cheyenne arrived this morning from Emerson and St. Vincent, having made the trip in eleven hours. She had eighty-five passengers and a little freight, it being difficult to obtain access to the warehouses, which were threatened with high water. A number of farm-houses stored with grain on the river banks are flooded.

POLK WELLS.

KROOK, Ia., May 3.—A special to the Constitution, dated Fort Madison, May 3, 4:30 p. m., says: "So far nothing definite has been received from the fugitives. The pursuit is still continued, but with abated vigor, and may be said to have been given up so far as hopes of their immediate capture is concerned. Pickets are still stationed for miles around watching eagerly for a glimpse of Polk Wells and his pal, but no trace has yet been found or the parties seen."

ZOPISA FROM BRAZIL.—Its wonderful affinity to the digestive apparatus of the human stomach, its most surprising effect upon a torpid liver, and in cleansing and toning the system, can be tested with a 10 cent sample bottle. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

Fraud.

Tens of thousands of dollars are so unaccountably yearly upon traveling quacks, who go from town to town professing to cure all the ills that our poor humanity is heir to. Why will not the public learn common sense, and if they are suffering from dyspepsia or liver complaint, invest a dollar in SPRING BLOOD, sold by all druggists and endorsed by the faculty. See testimonials. Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents. For sale by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

NEW PUBLICATION.

Abbott's Young Christian.—A new book for ladies—campaigns of the Civil War—The Idea of Garfield.

ABBOTT'S YOUNG CHRISTIAN. A Memorial Edition. With a Sketch of the Author. By One of His Sons. Illustrated. New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers. 1 vol., 602 pages, price, cloth, $2.

There was a time when the Rev. Jacob Abbott was one of the most widely read authors in America. His books were popular among young people, and almost every Sunday school in the land had some of the numerous books of Jacob Abbott. Among his earlier works was the "Young Christian," a book that sold by the tens of thousands. After his death, which occurred recently, his son concluded to publish a memorial edition of some one of his father's chief work, and this one was selected. It is an entirely new edition of that popular book, and contains a memoir of the author. It is handsomely printed and finely illustrated. To show what a busy life Mr. Abbott led, it is only necessary to add that he was the author of 180 volumes, and was the editor or joint author of 31 additional books. Beside writing these works, he was engaged in preaching and teaching nearly all his life.

The "Young Christian" is for sale by Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago, and by the local trade in Janesville.

MONEY MAKING FOR LADIES. By Ella Rodman Church. New York: Harper & Brothers. Price 10 cents.

This book is not designed to point the road by which women can become rich. It is rather a practical book on earning a competent living, and in that regard it offers some very valuable suggestions. It touches upon everything from keeping boarders and raising poultry, to writing for the magazines and painting pictures. Its contents are varied and cover a great deal of ground, including keeping a boarding house, sewing, teaching, writing prose and poetry, art industries, house decorating, shipping and commission, gardening for profit, raising flowers, keeping bees, selling eggs, and so on. Examples of success in all these branches are given. The book will be read with interest by all who are interested in the subjects discussed.

For sale by Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago, and by the local trade in Janesville.

THE ARMY OF THE CUMBERLAND. By Henry M. Cist. Brevet Brigadier General U. S. V. A. A. G. of the staff of Major General Sherman, and afterward of that of Major General Thomas; Corresponding Secretary of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. Price $1.00.

This is the seventh volume of the civil war series, and begins with the formation of the Army of the Cumberland and closes with the battle of Chattanooga, November, 1863. The volumes of the series are duodecimos of about 250 pages each, illustrated by maps and plans prepared under the direction of the authors. They appear, as far as possible, in the chronological order of the campaigns of which they treat; and by their preliminary and concluding chapters will be so far connected that the completed work will practically cover the entire field of the war. The price of each volume is only $1.00.

For sale by Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago, and by the local trade in Janesville.

Messrs. Jansen, McClurg & Co. have issued, in pamphlet form, "The Idea of Garfield," by "Timeoon," a personal friend of the lamented President. The work is interesting in showing what manner of a man the great statesman, scholar, and President was. Price only 15 cents.

"The Firm's Busted."

A novel bankruptcy case is reported by the National Sunday-School Teacher. The junior partner of the firm, being more generous than just, went into a benevolent operation without asking the senior member:

A little boy applied to Gen. Clinton B. Fisk for capital to go into business. Amount wanted—Seventy-five cents. Business—Boot-blacking. Station—Near Fulton Ferry, New York. Profits to be divided at the end of six months.

The arrangement was made, and the firm began business. One Monday morning, however, the "workin'" partner came into the General's office wearing a very lugubrious countenance.

"What's the matter?" asked the General.

"Oh," said the boy, "it's all up."

"All up!" said the General; "what do you mean?"

"Oh," replied the urchin, "the firm's busted."

"How is that?" was the inquiry.

"Well," said the boy, "I had $4.92 on hand; but yesterday a man came into our Sunday-school, and said we must give all our money to the Missionary Society, and I put it all in—I couldn't help it—and it's all up with us."

We have no doubt that the firm immediately "resumed" business again—but it is the first partnership we have heard of that has been busted in that way! Hence our extreme sympathy.

An interesting interview with the veteran novelist.
[London Correspondence New York Times.]

I called on the veteran novelist and play-wright, Charles Reade. I found him surrounded by a few of his "household gods," supplemented by some new furniture, and reading the monthly magazines by candle-light. He looked much better than I expected to find him.

He made all kinds of inquiries about America, expressed great interest in the progress of the international copyright movement, though he said Messrs. Harper had always paid him handsomely for his work, and, therefore, this interest is not personal, but covers the ground of justice to others, both American and English. The two great American magazines—Harper's and Scribner's, now the Century—were, he thought, marvelously cheap. "Their contents are so varied," he said, "and they do not depend upon a leading story for their attraction; the last few numbers of Harper's are simply admirable."

I asked him if he would not soon begin a new novel. He shook his head and smiled sadly. He has no longer any inducement to write, certainly not a work of any great length. Once or twice lately he had thought of continuing the series of short stories which he began some time ago. But he had not the heart to undertake a great work. He reminded me of the great reading and research which had always been involved in his novel writing, and now his method of writing fiction to him serious and very hard work. He talked benevolently of men and events in general, and not regretfully of anything except once to regret to the loss which shadows his life in these latter days. He was sorry he could not go to the theater and see The Lights of London, which he gathered from the papers, is really a bona fide success. He is greatly surprised at the last profitable revival of his own play, It is Never Too Late to Mend, which has replenished the coffers of the Adelphi Theater, where, I believe, Drink is to follow. Charles Warner being the leading man at this old home of melodrama.

Mr. Reade evidently thinks his forte is the drama. He spoke with great modesty of his novels, almost depreciatingly of himself as a novelist. His heart is more on dramatic works than novel writing. Many of my readers who form their opinions of Mr. Reade from his strong epistolary contributions to public controversy would be surprised at his gentle and unassuming manners. He has in company something of that self-alienation which makes men so much at home with Mr. Gladstone. The premier listens as if he valued your opinion and accepts information with a sort of pleasure that is eminently flattering to most people. Charles Reade is an equally good listener and always seems to find instruction in anything you have to tell him. I asked him about the prospect of the reproduction of his idyllic play of Dora and found that it had been under consideration at the Court Theater, the management, however, taking Mimi in preference.

Without any breach of confidence or departure from good taste, I send you these few notes about Mr. Reade, concerning whose health and whose retirement many inquiries are made and many suggestions offered. He may sit down to his desk again and with great results, but at present he appears to consider that his mission in life has had its chief fulfillment; though his intellect is still fresh and vigorous.

Indigestion, costiveness, or constipation, are immediately cured with ZEPHRA from Brazil. It stimulates and gives activity to the liver. It increases the dissolving juices of the stomach, and causes the food to assimilate. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

The Value of Mental Tension.

A certain degree of tension is indispensable to the easy and healthful discharge of mental functions. Like the national instrument of Scotland, the mind drones woefully and will discourse most dolorous music, unless an expansive and resilient from within supplies the basis of quickly responsive action. No good, great, or enduring work can be safely accomplished by brain-force without a reserve of strength sufficient to give buoyancy to the exercise, and if I may so say, rhythm to the operations of the mind. Working at high-pressure may be bad, but working at low-pressure is incomparably worse. As a matter of experience, a sense of weariness commonly precedes collapse from "over-work," not more bodily or nervous fatigue, but a more or less conscious distaste for the business in hand, or perhaps for some other subject of thought or anxiety which obtrudes itself. It is the offensive or irritating burden that breaks the back. Thoroughly agreeable employment, however engrossing, stimulates the recuperative faculty while it taxes the strength, and the supply of nerve force seldom falls short of the demand. When a feeling of disgust or weariness is not experienced, this may be because the compelling sense of duty has crushed self out of the mind. Nevertheless, if it rules like a martinet, without affection or interest, there is no verve, and, like a complex piece of machinery working with friction and heated bearings, the mind wears itself away and a breakdown ensues. Let us look a little closely at this matter. — Popular Science Monthly.

Dr. Holland's First Poem.

The first article of mine that ever saw the light was a little poem of four stanzas entitled "James' Tree." A little lad, son of the late Judge Dewey, of Massachusetts, stuck a willow twig into the ground of his father's garden, which took root after the manner of such twigs, and grew into a tree. The boy lived long enough to call this tree his own, and to secure its protection as such, and then died. After his death I wrote the poem, and it was published in The Youth's Companion, a publication still prosperous. I was then seventeen years old. I took the printed copy containing it from the postoffice, peeped over it, and then walked home on a cloud. I shall probably never be so absorbingly happy as I was then. Earth has nothing like it—earth never had anything like it—for me. I have seen my work in type since then until I have been tired of the sight of it, but I can never forget the great joy of that occasion. Smith College in Northampton now stands on the site of the old Dewey place, and when they cleared this away for the new buildings they found an old, gnarled willow tree, and the nature of my association with it. President Scott, made of it, and sent it to me. Of course it was booked among my household gods. — Letter Written to a Randolph (Ct.) Reading Club.

Animal Magnetism or Mesmerism.

Animal magnetism, or mesmerism, was first brought into notice in Germany by Frederich Anton Mesmer, a German physician, who was born at near Meersburg, Baden, on the lake of Constance, in 1733 or 1734. When Mesmer took his degree in 1776 he presented a thesis on "the influence of the planets on the human body," and he regarded the new force which he said could be exerted by one living organization upon another as a means of alleviating or curing disease. In 1778 he left Vienna and went to Paris, where he practiced amid the dislike of the medical profession, but with the favor of the people. He wrote several volumes on the subject, and it took its name from his first promoter. His discovery was fostered by Dr. D'Elson, physician to the King's brother, and in 1784 the French Government ordered the medical faculty of Paris to investigate Mesmer's theory. A commission was appointed, consisting of Benjamin Franklin, then Minister to France, Lavoisier, Bory, Bailly, Majault, Salin, D'Arcet, Guillon, and Le Roy, who reported that "the violent effects which are observed in the public practice of magnetism are due to the manipulations, and to that sort of mechanical imitation which leads us to repeat anything which produces an impression upon the senses." Mesmer left Paris in 1785, where his popularity rapidly diminished, and spent the rest of his life in retirement in Switzerland. He retired with considerable wealth, and retired from his former magnetic practice. It was said that at one time his income while in Paris was 100,000 francs a year.

Fraud.

Tens of thousands of dollars are squandered yearly upon traveling quacks, who go from town to town professing to cure all the ills that our poor humanity is heir to. Why will not the public learn common sense, and if they are suffering from dyspepsia or liver complaint, invest a dollar in Stryke's Balm, sold by all druggists and endorsed by the faculty. See testimonials. Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents.

BITS OF INFORMATION.

Of the population of Ireland 78.6 per cent. are Catholics.

The Bible has been translated into 226 languages and dialects, and in the last eight years 140,000,000 copies have been circulated.

Eight of the Presidents of the United States have been members of the Masonic fraternity—Washington, Jackson, Pierce, Buchanan, Andrew Johnson, Garfield and Arthur.

There are now 17,726 locomotives in the country, of which New England has 1,700, the Middle States 6,000, the Western States 7,800, the Southern States 1,800, the Pacific States 420, Pennsylvania has 2,700, New York 2,000, Illinois 1,900, Massachusetts 368, Georgia 303, Virginia 300 and Florida 38. The shops in the country now turn out 2,300 locomotives a year.

JULIUS CESAR died in the year 44 B. C., and Jesus Christ was born in either the fourth or the sixth year before the Christian era. Augustus was Emperor of Rome at the time of his birth. Tiberius Claudius Caesar was Emperor at the time that Christ said, "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's." Tiberius was still Emperor at the time of the crucifixion of Christ.

CONGRESS resolved on June 14, 1777, "that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." This is the recorded legislative action for the adoption of a national flag. The resolution was not promulgated until Sept. 3. It is supposed that the flag was first unfurled by Paul Jones on the Ranger. It is not known by whom the stars were suggested. By some they have been ascribed to John Adams, and by others it has been urged that the entire flag was borrowed from the coat of arms of the Washington family, but both conjectures are without proof, and the latter is improbable.

The history of mathematics may be divided into three great periods, each characterized by the introduction of important new methods. In the first, the era of Greek and Roman supremacy, geometry was almost exclusively cultivated. While arithmetic was hardly more than a mechanical calculation by means of the abacus, geometrical methods attained a degree of elegance scarcely to be surpassed, as appears from the rank still maintained by Euclid. After the decline of Rome the science took refuge among the Arabs, who translated and preserved the literary treasures of Greece. The Arabian philosophers were, however, rather learned than inventive, and added little to the heritage. But they introduced the second great period in the progress of mathematics by imparting to Europe the decimal arithmetic, and the algebraic calculus, both of which were perhaps of Indian origin.

The origin of the Order of the Garter, the highest order of knighthood in the world, has been variously given. Popular tradition ascribes it to Edward III., on the occasion of a court ball, at which he was dancing with the Countess of Salisbury. The lady accidentally dropped her garter; the King picked it up, and, observing the courtiers smile, restored it to the Countess with the words: "Honi soit qui mal y pense" (evil be to him who evil thinks), and shortly afterward founded the order as an incentive to chivalry among his knights. Another account states that the King founded it with the hope of attracting the best soldiers in Europe to his interest, and invited knights to the tournaments held at Windsor. At the battle of Crecy, in 1346, he is said to have given his garter for the signal of battle, and afterward, having King David of Scotland a prisoner, in memory of these grand events instituted the order on the 23d of April, 1349. The original knights included Edward the Black Prince and twenty-four other knights selected from among the highest nobles in the land, among whom the names of the Earl of Salisbury and the Sir Thomas Holland who married the Black Prince's widow are found. The garter, as now worn by the knights, is of blue velvet bordered with gold, and has the above motto inscribed on it.

Chas. Thompson, Franklin street, Buffalo, says: "I have suffered for a long time with constipation, and tried almost every purgative advertised, but only resulting in temporary relief, and after 'constipation still more aggravated.' I was told about your SPRING BLOSSOM and tried it, I can now say I am cured, and though large months have elapsed, still remain so. I shall, however, always keep some on hand in case of old complaint returning." Price 50 cents, trial bottles 10 cents.

Mrs. Cargill was returning home from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. George Barker, and when she had arrived at the stone quarry, she dropped her veil from the buggy. In attempting to get out of the buggy, she stepped onto the wheel, which started the horse, throwing Mrs. Cargill head first to the ground. Besides breaking her arm as above stated, she received several other bruises about the head and face. Dr. Coryell attended to the patient, and she is as comfortable as could be expected of one of her age—being nearly seventy.

Nothing to Show for It.

T. Olson, Taylor, Wis., says: "My daughter was so terribly burned about the face and neck that we feared she would be disfigured for life, but by promptly applying Cole's Carbolicaine the pain was allayed, a new skin rapidly formed, and now she is completely cured."

WAR AMONG THE TAILORS.

Notwithstanding the damp morning they kick up a little excitement.

There was quite an extensive quarrel among the tailors employed in the establishment of "Shea, the Tailor," this morning, which culminated in a street fight, in which the proprietor of the establishment was one of the principal participants. At an early hour in the forenoon the tailors in the above shop commenced a war of words, concerning the offensive odor from the feet of one of the journeymen. This objectionable man, we believe, is named John Waite, and he took a seat on the bench, appropriating one of the windows, thereby compelling a lady employee to discompose herself, or endure the stench. The lady's father, Mr. Miles Doran, was informed of the situation, and told Waite to move around and give the girl a chance at the window. This Waite refused to do and stuck one of his feet up to Doran's face, and told him to smell of it, when Doran hit him and the "cicero" commenced. Waite struck Doran with a pair of heavy shears, inflicting a severe wound on the right hand, and then ran down stairs with Doran after him. Soon back to the shop they came full of fight, when Doran grabbed up a small axe or hatchet, and made for Waite, who went down the back stairs and took leg bail in the alley way, in the rear of the Gazette block, and with the uplifted hatchet following close behind him. Doran was here stopped and sent to the doctor's office for repairs, and it was supposed that Waite had put himself out of the way, but not so. At about eleven o'clock one of the tailors named Servis, with Waite, was passing along Main street, in front of the Myers house. Mr. Shea met them, and after some words he struck Servis, and fight No. 2 commenced, but through the heroic exertions of Miss Helen Doran, the combatants were kept from doing any harm until the arrival of the marshal, whose presence announced peace. Doran again saw his man, and made for him with a club. Waite was terribly frightened at the sight of Doran's club and made quick steps for the west side, with Doran close onto him. He ran, crying "police," "murder," "hold him," until reaching the west side C. O. D. store, where he got into a wagon with Marshal Hogan in time to save himself. He squealed like a white-head when he saw the club raised for him.

While the chase was in progress for Waite, a couple of the tailors collided at the corner of River and West Milwaukee streets, and one of them was knocked down. Many lookers-on supposed this was another fight, and that the big tailor had got the worst of the engagement, but not so.

The marshal captured three of the belligerents and took them to jail, and then served a warrant on Shea for disturbing the peace of the city, and quiet was again restored.

All the parties will probably have a hearing before Judge Patten this afternoon.

Miss Frances E. Willard.

Potter's Monthly Magazine for May, published in Philadelphia, contains a very interesting biographical sketch of Miss Frances E. Willard, who, to day, is one of the foremost women in this country. Miss Willard having lived for several years near Janesville, and being personally known to many here, the magazine article will prove especially interesting to Janesville people, and particularly to those who are friends of the temperance cause and support the movement to give women the ballot.

The life of Frances Willard has been an eventful one, and no one can read it without a feeling of admiration for the grand fight the little woman has made. She had no splendid opportunities thrown in her way. She created all the splendid opportunities she ever had. She began on the farm near Janesville with girlish pranks and boyish inclinations, and today her reputation is as wide as the Union. Her busy life would be a profitable chapter for the girls of the period to read. She has taught in the humblest school houses as well as the higher branches in college, and has organized bible classes and preached the gospel. There are very few ministers who can preach more eloquently than she, and certainly none with deeper effect. She has traveled through Europe and Asia, and her notes of travel have been eagerly sought for by the Harpers and other publishers. To-day she is President of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The article in Potter's Magazine is accompanied by an excellent portrait of Miss Willard.

"Affection's Offering."

Mrs. Frank Leland, whose husband is United States Consul at Hamilton, Ontario, is the author of a volume of poems which has just been issued from the press. Mrs. Leland is well known in Janesville, and most deeply respected for her womanly character and high literary attainments, and a very large circle of friends here as well as in other parts of the State, will give this handsome book of poems a glad welcome. The poems that enrich the pages of this volume, have been written at leisure moments during the past dozen years or more, many of which have heretofore appeared in the public prints and have been widely read. It was very meet and proper that Mr. Leland should compile the volume. It has been done with scrupulous care, and all in all it makes a poetic treasure worthy a place in any library.

The book contains a very excellent steel portrait of Mrs. Mattie M. Leland, the author. The printing was done at Madison by David Atwood, of the State Journal, and has been executed in a very handsome manner. The binding is also first class which makes the volume of poems exceedingly attractive.

COURT NOTES.

The jury in the case of the State vs. Anderson, found the defendant guilty, and assessed the property embezzled at $28.96.

The case of Cobb vs. Saxe, after the jury had been drawn, was discontinued on motion of the counsel for Saxe.

The State vs. Penny is now on trial, and will occupy the afternoon. The defendant, as the readers are already aware, is charged with incest with his little daughter, who is the principal witness against him. District Attorney J. W. Sale for the prosecution and Wm. Street for the defense.

Herbert To-Night.

Miss Herbert will begin her engagement to-night at Myers Opera house, in "Destiny." Our people have heard her before, and have never been disappointed. The Council Bluffs nonpareil says:

She has a fine voice, good appearance, an easy, untrammelled manner, and is so graceful and proper as to captivate her auditors, and make them all her admirers. She is always exceeding expectation. In the most trying scenes and situations, where it might be expected she would occasionally fail, she is at her best.

The Omaha Bee adds:

Miss Herbert has established herself here as a favorite, and will be greeted whenever she finds it convenient to return to Omaha with rousing hosannas. She is a very clever artist, versatile, in the extreme, and gains the good will of her audiences almost instantly.

Cuticura

THE NEW BLOOD PURIFIER

Resolvent

I will now state that I made miraculous cure of one of the worst cases of skin disease known. The patient is a man forty years old; had suffered fifteen years. His eyes, scalp and nearly his whole body presented a frightful appearance. Had had the attention of twelve different physicians, who prescribed the best remedies known to the profession, such as iodine, potassium, arsenic, corrosive sublimate, sarsaparilla, etc. Had paid $500 for medical treatment, but with little relief. I prevailed upon him to use the CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, and the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally. He did so, and was completely cured. The skin on his head, face, and many other parts of his body, which presented a most loathsome appearance, is now as soft and smooth as an infant's, with no scar or trace of disease left behind. He has now been cured twelve months. Reported by F. H. BROWN, Esq., Barnwell, S. C.

SCROFULA SORE.

Rev. Dr. Drake, in detailing his experience with the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, said that through Divine Providence one of his parishioners was cured of a scrofulous sore, which was slowly draining away his life, by the CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally. The poison that fed the disease was completely driven out.

ECZEMA.

Sixteen months since an eruption broke out on my leg and both feet, which turned out to be Eczema, and caused me great pain and annoyance. I tried various remedies with no good results, until I used the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, which entirely cured me so that my skin is as smooth and natural as ever. LEN. M. FIALLEY, 61 South St., Baltimore.

CUTICURA.

The Cuticura treatment for the cure of Skin Scap and Blood Diseases, consists of the internal use of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, and the external use of CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, the Great Skin Cures. Price of CUTICURA, small boxes, 50c; large boxes, $1. Cuticura Resolvent, $1 per bottle. CUTICURA SOAP, 25c. CUTICURA SHAVING SOAP, 15c. Depot: WEEKS & POTTER, Boston, Mass.
